Seventh-day Adventist Church
Sabbath School Lesson Scripture for April 18, 1964: Psalm 27.
Memory Text: Psalm 27:1 "The Lord is my light and my salvation; whom shall I fear? the Lord is the strength of my life; of whom shall I be afraid?"
Aim: To encourage the realization that complete confidence in God's power to save will banish all fear from the believer's heart.
Introduction —

God's pardoning mercy, this smile of His approval, the assurance of His loving - kindness, the happy peaceful sense of His presence and care, all have their weight in the sum of one's confidence in God. Parts of this Psalm represent a dialogue between the believing heart and God. Here the invitation is given "Seek ye my face" is likened to the key with which faith opens the door to prayer". Without this prelude" says Calvin, "no one shall lead the chorus of prayer." The reply of the heart in the psalm is likened to the echo sleeping in silence till the voice calls it forth. If we seek Him we shall find Him today. As the miner must dig, the fisherman let down his net, the husbandman plow and sow before he reaps, we must seek before we find.
Jeremiah 29:13 says "And ye shall seek me and find me, when ye shall search for me with all your heart."

Rev. McLean Holds Special Service At McLean House

Men who fought and died in war were honored in a memorial service Thursday, April 9, commemorating 99th anniversary of General Robert E. Lee's surrender to Ulysses Grant at Old Appomattox Court House. Reverend Edward J. McLean, assistant pastor of Holy Cross Catholic Church, Lynchburg, conducted the service in the McLean House at Appomattox Historical National Park.

and then the tulo lined up for wonderful performance of the Beetles. They knew just when to start screaming. Oh me. The next morning a breakfast. Mark was missing, but we finally found him in hiding under the breakfast table.

The Week That Was. We stopped at Orange for lunch and the Pennsylvania couple at the next table said they wanted to see the Skyline Drive, and Natural Bridge, but they also wanted to go by Histroic Appomattox. Brightleaf had to restrain me from barzing in and setting forth on a personally guided tour of same and inviting them to see my private Museum. And so I finished my generous helping of fresh shrimp and we renewed our trip. Passing through Buckingham Court House we saw Brightleaf's kinfolks on their patio and so stopped over for a visit with Mrs. Ruth Sheppard Crute and her sister who was visiting from Charlottesv l l e and thence to Martha Street in Old Appomatox, and hasening to see our neighbors and ask "Has anything happened in Appomatox while we were away? Gracious, this only brings me up to Sunday, and there is no space left to tell about the rest of "The Week That Was." Why don't you keep a Diary. That's diary, not dairy, for you can't go away off and leave cows unattended . . . but a diary is something for the books. Selah. O Sachem.

Father-Son Enterprise

Richard D. Robinson, above, and his father, Richard Dale Robinson, well known funeral director of Appomattox, are both licensed funeral directors and embalmers. The younger Robinson has had his licenses about a year, having graduated from Cincinnati College of Embalming in March, 1963. While in school he won the Hoover Award for Restorative Art. He completed a twelve months course of study preceded by two years of apprenticeship. Richard, a graduate of Appomattox High in 1958, also attended Hampden-Sydney College. He successfully passed state board examinations both in embalming and in the profession of funeral direction. He is married to the former Miss Ann Martin, of Pamplin.

Local Students Served In Model Assembly

The 1964 Virginia District Y. M. C. A. Model General Assembly was held April 2, 3, and 4, in the capital, Richmond, Virginia. The local Sr. Tri-Hi-Y Club of Appomattox High School sent three representatives to this Assembly. Sandra Pankey, a senior was in the Senate House, Judy Smith, a junior, in the House of Delegates, and Lynda Hall, a sophomore served as reporter. Miss Julia Asher accompanied these girls to Richmond and also took an active part in the Assembly by serving on the committee of General Laws.

F.B.L.A. Meets

The Appomattox FBLA Chapter met April 9 in the High School auditorium. The president Kenneth Baldwin, brought the meeting to order, Scottie Giles read from Genesis 31 for devotion. Gloria Reynolds, secretary, read the minutes of the last meeting and called the roll. Linda Carter gave the treasurer's report.

There was a discussion on whether the club should have a banquet, cover-dish supper, or a picnic. A motion was made and carried that we have a picnic. The social committee, composed of Pat Ferguson, chairman, Carolyn Keys, Joyce Orange, Carolyn Goad, and Bill Allen Burke will plan the picnic.

Since the FBLA Club is to help improve business, a motion was made that the club give Mrs. Beamer $10 for shorthand records to be used in her short hand classes.

The new officers elected for next year are: president, Lewis Jimmy Garrett, secretary, Carolyn Goad, parliamentarian, Virginia Bryant. The treasurer and reporter will be elected next year.

Lewis McCormick made a motion that the club buy handbooks for all the officers. The motion was seconded and carried.

The meeting was adjourned until the first Thursday in May.

Reporter, Patsy Kroutz
